

PREFACE

This survey report on the results of the I.G. inspection of the Office of Communications reflects the major aspects of its operations on a world-wide basis. Because of the size of the O/C and the complexity and scope of its activities, it was necessary to omit much of the detailed information acquired during the four months devoted to an evaluation of this Agency component. In general, the O/C is performing its mission in a highly commendable manner. For the sake of brevity, however, this report tends to emphasize only those deficiencies of major significance with appropriate recommendations.
